Hanging an image of a martini glass or wine bottle on your wall can look neat, but it's been done—a lot. The idea still holds appeal, however, and it looks like BevShots.com found a way to innovative the concept.

BevShots look like abstract pieces of modern art, but they're in fact highly magnified photos of real beverages. They include everything from cocktails to beer to hard liquor and cola, so even non-drinkers can appreciate the psychedelic closeups.

You can pick your BevShot by drink, by color, or you can browse the whole gallery of microscopic drink shots like sake, red table wine and vodka tonic and pick the one that pops out at you most.
